Author: Sana Mohamed Abasher, PhD, University of Khartoum
Bio: Dr. Sana Mohamed Abasher got her PhD from Khartoum University. Certificate in Health psychology, and counseling afterward with position as lect. in Ahfad University for Women, then as Assistant Professor with the same university. Her area of especially is Psychosexual care of Cancer patients in general and Breast Cancer women in specific, were she also did some counseling work with Radiation and Isotopic Center in Khartoum. Dr. Sana worked also with Doctor without border in the field of HIV/AIDS. She also did many consulting projects with some NGOs working in troubled areas in Sudan such as Darfur, east and the South with vulnerable people (ex. women and street children).

Author: Yuko Abbott, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Yuko Abbott is a licensed clinical social worker (LCSW) and is an Oncology Social Worker at the University of California San Diego (UCSD) Moores Cancer Center. She holds a Master of Social Work degree from San Diego State University. She currently works especially with gynecologic cancer and urologic cancer patients. She has been a social worker for nearly 20 years. She has been in the field of oncology social work since 2008 and in the field of medical social work since 2004 including some work in pediatric oncology. Her clinical and research interests are patient empowerment, service and access improvement and raising awareness about support services among cancer patients. She is a member of Quality Committee, Wellbeing Screening committee and Survivorship Committee in order to ensure quality of care to patients and families, to develop relevant programs and to research impacts of these programs at UCSD.

Author: Barbara Abernathy, MS, PhD, LMHC
Bio: Barbara Abernathy is the Executive Director of the Pediatric Oncology Support Team in West Palm Beach, FL, adjunct faculty at the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine and Florida Atlantic University. She is a licensed mental health counselor and NCC certified. She also has a private practice - Healthy Minds Counseling and Wellness. Her expertise is in facilitating the social, emotional and academic adjustment of children, adolescents, and young adults with chronic or life-threatening illness. She has a Ph.D. in Counselor Ed from Florida Atlantic University, a Master of Education in Counseling from the University of South Alabama, a Master of Science in Biology from Florida Atlantic University, and a Bachelor of Education in Human Development and Social Policy from Northwestern University. She has given various lectures in professional forums on trauma, identity, grief, bereavement, and cancer survivorship.

Author: Annamma Abraham Kaba, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Annamma Abraham Kaba is a Clinical Supervisor and the Manager for Resources for Life After Cancer, a resource and counseling program for adult cancer survivors at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center (MSK). She is also the founder and co-coordinator of the Department of Social Work’s Caregiver Program at MSK. She has a particular interest in cancer survivorship, recognizing and supporting family caregivers and how patients and families experience vulnerability and adversity during illness. She graduated from Columbia University School of Social Work with a Master of Science and completed a post master’s fellowship training in Gestalt Psychotherapy. She joined Memorial Sloan-Kettering in 1998 with extensive experience in both ambulatory and inpatient settings and has been in field of oncology for a tenure of 17 years.

Author: Patrice Al-Shatti, MSW, LMSW
Bio: Patrice Al-Shatti serves as the health and wellness coordinator for a large urban faith community. She develops and implements educational programming, writes online wellness content, coordinates the monitoring and support of vulnerable members of the church community, and counsels individuals and families. She is also active in community mediation efforts. She recently retired from a twenty-five year career in geriatric and oncology social work and counseled many families facing medical crisis and the chronic concerns of aging. She facilitated support groups, served as a university field instructor, managed staff and programs, developed support services and educational materials, and led the quality of life efforts of the Arizona Cancer Control Coalition. She is Communications Director for Association of Oncology Social Work, managing the news, member networking, and social media efforts of the association, and speaks at local and national conferences as a healthcare trainer and advocate.

Author: Amanda Amodio, BS, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Amanda Amodio, LCSW is a clinical social worker at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center since 2010, having worked in both the inpatient and outpatient settings. Prior, she worked as a social worker at CancerCare. Amanda has a special interest in understanding health disparities for the underserved, especially migrants and refugees and in designing support programs for diverse oncology patient groups. She has developed a program for Spanish speaking patients in the outpatient oncology setting and serves on the MSK Community Outreach Committee. She has served as a volunteer consultant to the Refugee Immigrant Fund since 2010 and has undergone training on working with refugees seeking asylum. Amanda completed post graduate training in Psychodynamic Psychotherapy from the American Institute of Psychoanalysis (AIP). She presented at the 2013 AOSW annual conference and recently co-authored a chapter on support for immigrants and refugees in the recently released Handbook of Oncology Social Work (2015).

Author: Christina Bach, MBE, MSW, LCSW, OSW-C
Bio: Christina Bach received her Masters in Bioethics and Social Work from the University of Pennsylvania. She is an educational content specialist and psychosocial content editor at OncoLink, www.oncolink.org, the web's first cancer education resource. Previously, Christina worked in both inpatient and outpatient medical oncology settings at Penn Medicine and as bereavement counselor/veterinary social worker at the Penn Veterinary Hospital. Christina focuses her work on distress screening response, improving patient engagement through education and empowerment, interprofessional collaboration, healthcare professional education, long term psychosocial effects of cancer survivorship, financial toxicity and advocacy, self care, meaningful use of technology in supportive care and animal assisted therapy in cancer care. Christina has served as the education director on the AOSW Board of Directors since January 2014. Previously she served as AOSW Pennsylvania state representative and coordinator of social networking.

Author: Shelby Becka, BSW, MSSW, LMSW
Bio: Shelby Becka is a graduate of the University of Texas School of Social Work. She earned her bachelors of social work in 2012 and completed her graduate degree in 2014. Currently, she is working as a social work counselor at MD Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, Texas.

Author: Lauren Berger, MPH
Bio: Lauren provides leadership for The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society’s national professional education program including online, video, and in-person programs for oncology nurses, social workers, and physicians, and collaborating with organizations to support healthcare professionals who treat blood cancer patients. She directs LLS’ continuing education accreditation program for nurses and social workers. Lauren was responsible for patient education programs prior to this and continues to be involved in producing patient education videos on topics such as Cancer Survivorship in Young Adults, Paths to Recovery, and Advances in Blood Cancers. Lauren has been at LLS for 10 years. She came to LLS from the American Lung Association, where she was responsible for health education programs, staff and volunteer development, and managing relationships with partners to support health education programs. Lauren earned a BA degree from Queens College of the City University of NY and a MPH degree from New York University.

Author: Seth Berkowitz, MSW, LCSW and CCLS
Bio: Seth Berkowitz, LCSW, CCLS is the Senior Patient Access Manager for Florida with The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society (LLS.) He is a licensed clinical social worker in the State of Florida and a Certified Child Life Specialist. Seth has been with LLS for almost 10 years. In his role he works on outreach, volunteer development, family support groups and individual patient needs. He serves or has served in leadership roles with the National Association of Social Worker Florida Chapter, Florida Society of Oncology Social Workers, Florida Association of Child Life Professionals and Florida Association of Clinical Oncology. Seth worked with a group of Young Adult Survivors to create a support group for young adult cancer patients in their 20’s & 30’s. He helped establish the Florida Childhood Cancer Symposium, Florida Hematologic Malignancies Symposium, and the Florida Blood Cancer Conference.

Author: Jennifer Bires, MSW, LICSW, OSW-C, End-of-Life Certificate
Bio: Jennifer Bires graduated with her MSW from Washington University in St. Louis in 2009. She works as the Program Coordinator and out-patient oncology social worker for George Washington University, Medical Faculty Associates outpatient Cancer Center. She is charged with ensuring the highest quality of life possible for both patients and family members, taking into account social, familial, economic and logistical needs. She works closely with the palliative care team and physicians to ensure end-of-life needs are met and a seamless transition to hospice care is achieved. She runs a variety of support groups and educational programs for patients and families. In addition to the psycho-social care she provides, she also helps secure funding for medications, co-pays, transportation, food, and other logistical needs patients may have when going through treatment.
Author: Sandra Blackburn, MSW, n/a
Bio: Sandy Blackburn, MSW, is a patient navigator at an NCI-designated comprehensive cancer center in Philadelphia. She is a co-founder of the Writing a Life program, which provides an opportunity for patients to express their emotions through the literary arts. She coordinates the semi-annual social work CEU educational conferences for social workers in the cancer center network. During her twenty seven years of employment at a major academic medical center she has served as a patient advocate in the Patient and Guest Services Department as well as the coordinator of the hospital's adult, college and teen volunteer programs. Current projects include implementation and database management of the mandated distress screening program. She has recently spoken at the Association of Oncology Social Work national conference and has an interest in social work education and leadership.

Author: Lindsay Blair, MSW, LGSW
Bio: Lindsay Blair is a Licensed Graduate Social Worker at the George Washington Medical Faculty Associates. Lindsay graduated from The Catholic University of America in 2015 with her Master in Social Work. She specializes in crisis intervention, resource management, and individualized therapeutic and psychosocial support. Lindsay facilitates and addresses the psychosocial needs for oncology patients ranging from initial appointment to end of treatment or hospice transitions. She coordinates with an interdisciplinary team of physicians, psychiatrists, and palliative specialists to provide whole patient care. In her role, Lindsay facilitates support groups and partners with the community liaisons to offer educational programs. She is also skilled in securing additional funds through patient assistance programs and aids patients in navigating insurance companies and coverage concerns.

Author: Sage Bolte, MSW, PhD, LCSW, OSW-C
Bio: Dr. Sage Bolte specializes in how cancer and its treatments impact sexual function and intimacy in relationships. She has done numerous national and international presentations and has also contributed to a number of publications on this topic. In 2008, Dr. Bolte received the American Cancer Society’s Doctoral Training Grant. Sage received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Hope College and later received her Master’s degree in social work from the University of Michigan. She has served as adjunct faculty at both The Catholic University of America and George Mason University. She received her PhD in Social Work from The Catholic University of America School of Social Service where her dissertation explored the sexual selves of young adult cancer survivors as compared to their healthy peers. Sage is the Director of Life with Cancer, a not for profit support and education program.

Author: Lorelei Bonet, MSW, LCSW, OSW-C
Bio: Lorelei Bonet studied at the City University of New York in their doctoral Social Psychology program before learning that she was actually a social worker, rather than a health psychologist. While in that program, her work centered on HIV adherence. She moved to Los Angeles and received her MSW from the University of Southern California. It was in her second year field placement that she worked for the first time in oncology, at the Simms/Mann Center for integrative Oncology. Since then, she served as an inpatient oncology social worker in Burbank CA for five years and has since returned to the place of her oncology training, where she contributes to the trans-disciplinary intern training program as well as the provision of patient care in the outpatient setting. She proudly presented for the first time at last year’s AOSW conference in Seattle, where she debuted her paper on "Psychosocial Ecotones".

Author: William Breitbart, MD, Psychiatry, Internal Medicine, Psychosomatic Medicine
Bio: William Breitbart, M.D. is Chairman, Jimmie C Holland Chair in Psychiatric Oncology, Department of Psychiatry & Behavioral Sciences, Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, New York. He is the 2009 Arthur Sutherland Lifetime Achievement Awardee, International Psycho-oncology Society; 2011 recipient of the Thomas Hackett Award for Lifetime Achievement from the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine, and the 2013 recipient of the Jimmie Holland Award from the American Psychosocial Oncology Society. He is Past President of IPOS. His research has focused on Psychiatric aspects of cancer and palliative care. Now his focus is on Meaning-Centered Psychotherapy for cancer patients. He has published 400 peer reviewed papers and edited 10 textbooks including: Psycho-oncology - 1st, 2nd and 3rd Editions (co-editor with Dr. Jimmie Holland); and two treatment manuals on Meaning-Centered Psychotherapy for Cancer Patients. Dr. Breitbart is Editor-in-Chief, of Cambridge University Press’ international palliative care journal entitled, “Palliative & Supportive Care”.

Author: Karlynn BrintzenhofeSzoc, PhD, MSW, n/a
Bio: Karlynn BrintzenhofeSzoc, PhD, MSW is an associate professor at NCSSS. She held the positions of Director, Data Management and Outcomes Assessment and Assistant Dean, Chair of the PhD program. Currently she is Co-Director of a Research Center at NCSSS and PI of a three-year SAMHSA training grant of MSW and MSN students in Screening Brief Intervention and Referral to Treatment (SBIRT) for those at risk for or who have a substance use disorder. Dr. BrintzenhofeSzoc’s clinical and research experience is in medical social work working with people diagnosed with cancer and AIDS and their family and friends. Dr. BrintzenhofeSzoc is a co-author on over 20 articles, 2 book chapters, six published abstracts, and two monographs. She has presented at local, regional, national, and international professional meetings. Dr. BrintzenhofeSzoc is the preceptor for six PhD students and consultant for one who received Dissertation Training Grants from the American Cancer Society.

Author: Monica Bryant, JD, Esq.
Bio: Monica Fawzy Bryant is a cancer rights attorney, speaker, and author, dedicated to improving access to and availability of quality information on cancer survivorship issues. Ms. Bryant is the co-founder and Chief Operating Officer for Triage Cancer a national nonprofit organization connecting people to cancer survivorship information through a national Speakers Bureau, educational events, and online tools. Throughout her career, Ms. Bryant has provided hundreds of educational seminars, written articles and blogs, and appeared on television and radio shows discussing cancer-related legal issues like insurance access and employment rights. Additionally, Ms. Bryant is an Adjunct Law Professor at John Marshall School of Law in Chicago, teaching a class on Cancer Rights.

Author: Karen Bullock, PhD, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Karen Bullock, Ph.D. is Professor and Head of the Department of Social Work at North Carolina State University, in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. She earned her Ph.D. in Sociology and Social Work from Boston University, her Master’s degree in Social Work from Columbia University, and Bachelor of Social Work degree from NC State University. Dr. Bullock has more than 20 years of clinical practice experience in mental health and aging, with interests and expertise in health care disparities and end-of-life care issues. She is a John A. Hartford Faculty Scholar and serves on several national boards and committees, including AGE-SW, Social Work Hospice & Palliative Care Network (SWHPN), the American Cancer Society Oncology Social Work Research Peer Review Committee, and is current Chair of the NASW Mental Health Section Committee. Dr. Bullock’s research is focused on cancer care and social support for older adults with non-curable illnesses.
Author: Christine C. Callahan, PhD, LCSW-C
Bio: Dr. Christine Callahan is Research Assistant Professor with the Financial Social Work Initiative at the University of Maryland School of Social Work. She joined the Initiative in 2012 and conducts research to grow the FSWI as a national leader in financial capability. She worked as a clinician for 20 years at the NIH Clinical Center in Bethesda, MD, working with patients and families enrolled in clinical trials at this federal research hospital. Her work involved financial distress with people who were in medical and psychosocial crisis. Dr. Callahan has presented at national conferences, including the Society for Social Work and Research, the Society for Social Work Leadership in Health Care, the Council on Social Work Education, the Association of Oncology Social Work, and the Social Work Hospice and Palliative Care Network General Assembly. She has also written on issues related to cancer and social work practice in peer-reviewed journals.

Author: Rebecca Cammy, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Rebecca Cammy, MSW, LCSW received a Master in Social Work degree from the University of Pennsylvania’s School of Social Policy and Practice (SP2) and a Bachelor of Arts in Psychology from the University of Michigan. She also earned certification in licensed clinical social work in Pennsylvania. She has been a social worker at the University of Pennsylvania Health System since 2009. She started working for Wissahickon Hospice, followed by her current role with the Department of Radiation Oncology. In this position, she guides psychosocial support for oncology patients pursuing daily outpatient proton and conventional radiation therapy at the Perelman Center for Advanced Medicine. She has presented at a variety of conferences and professional development forums communication and end-of-life care. She was recently selected as a Palliative and End-of-Life Care Social Work Leadership Fellow through the Zelda Foster Studies Program at the New York University's Silver School of Social Work.

Author: Audrey Caspar-Clark, MA, RD LDN CSL
Bio: Audrey Caspar-Clark, M.A., R.D., L.D.N, C.S.O., received her M.A. in Nutrition Education from Immaculata University in 2009 and her B. S. in Nutrition from Immaculata University in 2000. She holds an active certification as a specialist in oncology nutrition (CSO) and works as an out-patient oncology dietitian at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania and the Abramson Cancer Center, a large urban cancer center treating upwards of 6000 patients yearly. She is a frequent provider of nutrition related education at oncology conferences, patient support groups, and community health programs; as well as providing educational sessions for staff and teaching nutrition at the University of Pennsylvania School of Nursing. Some of her interests include cooking and preserving foods, sustainable agriculture, equity in health care and food distribution, and animal welfare. There are no conflict of interest disclosures.

Author: Christabel K. Cheung, MSW
Bio: Christabel Cheung, MSW, is a doctoral student in social welfare at the University of California, Los Angeles Luskin School of Public Affairs, where her research is focused on health care and disparities in survivorship from adolescent and young adult cancer. Christabel also serves as project director for Dr. Brad Zebrack at the University of Michigan School of Social Work. She Prior to pursuing her PhD at UCLA, Christabel served as lecturer/field consultant at UC Berkeley’s School of Social Welfare, where she taught graduate and undergraduate courses, and supervised graduate students in social work field placements within government and community-based agencies. As a social services practitioner, Christabel last served as executive director of San Francisco Village, a nonprofit organization within the national village movement for aging in place. She received a BJ from the University of Missouri-Columbia, School of Journalism and an MSW from the University of California, Berkeley.

Author: Chelsea Chin, MSSW, LCSW
Bio: Chelsea Chin, LCSW is a clinical social worker with the Bone Marrow Transplant Service at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center. She provides supportive counseling, practical support, and advocacy to patients and families throughout the trajectory of the stem cell transplant process. Ms. Chin earned a B.A. in Sociology from University of Michigan and an M.S. in Social Work from the Columbia University School of Social Work. She has received training in cognitive behavioral therapy from the National Cancer Institute funded workshop for cancer clinicians in addition to training for CLIMB® (Children’s Lives Include Moments of Bravery), a psychosocial intervention program for children of parents with cancer. She also completed post master’s certificate programs in Advanced Clinical Practice as well as Palliative and End-of-Life Care at the New York University Silver School of Social Work.

Author: Sharon Cohan, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Sharon Cohan, LCSW is a graduate of Barry University School of Social Work and has worked as an oncology social worker for the past 20 years. For the last nine years Sharon has worked as the Manager of Patient Access for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society at the Palm Beach Area Chapter providing education to patients, families and healthcare providers. Sharon brings years of experience to LLS having worked with adults as an Inpatient Oncology Counselor at Good Samaritan Medical Center and with children as the Director of Psychosocial Services at the Conor Moran Children’s Cancer Foundation. Sharon is a Field Educator with Barry University School of Social Work and Florida Atlantic University School of Social Work.

Author: Helen L. Coons, PhD, ABPP certified; Licensed Psychologist, CPQ, NRHSP
Bio: Dr. Helen Coons received a doctoral degree from Temple University in clinical psychology after interning in medical psychology at Duke University School of Medicine. She completed a Primary Health Care Policy fellowship at the Department of Health and Human Services, Primary Health Care Policy in Washington DC, and is a board-certified clinical health psychologist. Dr. Coons, a national leader in women’s health, mental health, and psychosocial oncology, has over 25 years of professional experience with women, men, and families coping with cancer, as well as with oncology healthcare providers and the cancer advocacy community. She provides inter-professional care to women and men across the life span with breast, gynecological, colon, lung, hematological, and other cancer diagnoses. Dr. Coons works with patients of all ages before, during, and after cancer treatment; adults with early, advanced, and end-stage cancer; women at “high risk” for cancer; and individuals caring for ill family members.

Author: Mary Crooks, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Mary Crooks received a Masters in Social Work from University of Connecticut. For the past twenty five years she has worked as an Oncology Social Worker, with the last thirteen years specializing in care for patients and families enrolled in the Stem Cell Transplant Program within the Division of Adult Hematology Oncology at Smilow Cancer Hospital at Yale New Haven Hospital.

Author: Jane E. Dabney, MSW, LISW-S, OSW-C
Bio: Jane Dabney, LISW-S, OSW-C is a Licensed Independent Social Worker; she received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Kent State University and then continued on to earn her Master’s degree in Social Work at Cleveland State University. Jane is a Certified Oncology Social Worker and has been a member of the Association of Oncology Social Work since 2001. She has been the Blood and Marrow Transplant Special Interest Group leader since 2007. In addition to clinical responsibilities, Jane coordinates and co-facilitates the monthly Post Transplant Preparation Education and Support Group. She has served on professional advisory committees through the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, Hope Lodge, National Marrow Donor Program, and Northeast Ohio Social Work Oncology Group. Jane also participates in psychosocial research conducted by the Blood and Marrow Transplant program at Cleveland Clinic. Jane has been with Cleveland Clinic’s Blood and Marrow Transplant Program since 2001.

Author: Sharon Daneshgar, MSW, LCSW-R
Bio: Sharon Daneshgar received her MSW at Adelphi University. She has been a social worker at the North Shore LIJ System for 30 years. She presently is an oncology social worker at the Monter Cancer Center. She provides individual counseling to oncology patients in an outpatient setting. She also facilitates a blood cancer support group. She was the recipient of the ACS Quality of Life Award for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society. She also was the recipient of the Hematology Oncology Social Worker of the Year Award for AOSW.

Author: Csaba László Dégi, MSW PHD, Licensed Principal Social Worker CNASR
Bio: Csaba L. Degi is researcher and associate professor at the Babes - Bolyai University, Faculty of Sociology and Social Work in Cluj Napoca, Romania. He holds bachelor’s and masters’ degrees in social work and a PhD in clinical psychology. Since 2001, he has been working with cancer patients, cancer survivors and oncology teams. Based on his relevant practical and research experiences in psycho-oncology he developed and coordinated several cancer-related research and psycho-social screening programs. His results are published in the most outstanding professional journals. He is the president of the Romanian Association for Services and Communication in Oncology.

Author: Jill L. Dodson, MS, BA, LSW, LMHC, LMFT
Bio: Jill Dodson received a BA from Purdue University and a MS from Butler University. She has been with Indiana University Health since 1993. She is currently the Oncology Social Worker for the Indiana University Health North Hospital Cancer Center. She meets with every newly diagnosed Breast Cancer patient and their families. She has also developed and implemented The Wellness Series for Cancer Patients and their Guests. She has also developed a project to Light Up Indiana University Health North Hospital with pink solar lights for National Breast Cancer month, energizing the community and raising money for Patients in Need.

Author: Jennifer Dunn, MSW, LCSW OSW-C
Bio: Jennifer Dunn, MSW, LCSW, is a clinical social worker who received a BA in Psychology from the University of Kansas and MSW from the Brown School of Social Work at Washington University in St. Louis. Ms. Dunn is currently employed at St. Louis University Cancer Center in St. Louis, MO and is a facilitator at the Cancer Support Community of Greater St. Louis. Ms. Dunn also participates as a facilitator at the Saint Louis University School of Medicine Death and Dying Course. Her clinical experience includes adult and pediatric hospice and palliative care, bereavement counseling, helping families cope with psychosocial aspects of cancer care, interdisciplinary teamwork, individual counseling and support group facilitation. Ms. Dunn has Oncology Social Work Certification and was accepted as a Zelda Foster Social Work Leadership Fellow in Palliative and End of Life Care at NYU Silver School of Social work.

Author: Caroline Edlund, MSW-NYU; BA, English-Yale, LCSW, OSW-C
Bio: Caroline Edlund received a BA in English from Yale College and an MSW degree from New York University School of Social Work. She has completed certificate programs in clinical supervision and in palliative/end-of-life care from New York University. She is Online Support Group Program Director at CancerCare. In this role, she oversees all aspects of the online program, a clinical program offering 125 groups annually, serving the needs of cancer patients, cancer caregivers, and the bereaved. Her responsibilities include advising and training online moderators on best practices and collaborating with outside organizations around new group offerings. She also provides direct clinical support to a caseload of individual clients via face-to-face and telephone counseling sessions, and moderates CancerCare’s therapeutic writing group called Healing with Words.

Author: Tonya Letitia Edmond, BSW MSW, LCSW OSW-C
Bio: Tonya Edmond, LCSW, OSW-C received a BA in Social Work from Mississippi State University and a MA degree from Howard University. She is Oncology Social Worker Certified through Association of Oncology Social Workers. Tonya Edmond has worked for Georgia Cancer Specialists affiliated with Northside Hospital Institute since 2012. As Oncology Clinical Social Worker, she assist patients and their families, in outpatient setting, navigate through web of emotions and psychosocial needs that are brought about by a cancer diagnosis. Tonya Edmond offers support groups and remains involved in community education and support. She received 2015 Community Service Award through Northside Behavioral Health. She was Psychosocial Facilitator for 2015 Casting for Recovery Breast Cancer Retreat.

Author: Kathryn Elison, MSW, LICSW
Bio: Kathryn is a clinical social worker at the University of Minnesota Medical Center's Blood and Marrow Transplant Program. Kathryn is a graduate of the University of North Carolina Chapel Hill where she obtained an undergraduate degree in psychology and a Master of Social Work degree. Kathryn later worked as a clinical social worker at the Children's Hospital of Los Angeles in the Division of Research Immunology & Bone Marrow Transplant prior to coming to the University of Minnesota.

Author: Robert E. Fisher, MD, MD, Licensed in Colorado
Bio: Robert E. Fisher, MD received his BA from Kenyon College and Medical Degree from the University of Cincinnati. Following Internal Medicine Residency at Johns Hopkins Medical Institutions and Hematology/Oncology Fellowship at the University of Maryland Cancer Center, Dr. Fisher practiced for 14 years in Youngstown, Ohio and held Clerkship Directorship at NorthEastern Ohio Universities College of Medicine. Since 2002, Dr. Fisher has practiced in Longmont, Colorado and has been a partner with Rocky Mountain Cancer Centers since 2005. He has maintained a special interest in Survivorship Care, and is Past President of the MyLifeLine.org Foundation. Dr. Fisher co founded The Pink Ribbon Survivors Network in 2011, and is the organization’s President. Dr. Fisher has published multiple articles and abstracts in the field of Cancer Survivorship pertaining to data analysis of the Pink Ribbon Survivors Network online library database.

Author: Meghan K. Fitzgibbons, MSW, LGSW
Bio: Meghan Fitzgibbons received a BA in Psychology from the University of Virginia and a MSW from Rutgers University. She is a licensed graduate social worker employed by the Ulman Cancer Fund for Young Adults. As the young adult patient navigator, Meghan serves patients and their families at the John P Murtha Cancer Center at Walter Reed National Military Medical Center in Bethesda, MD. She has worked in the young adult cancer field for two years and she started the Ulman Cancer Fund for Young Adults’ patient navigation program at Walter Reed National Military Medical Center. Meghan has presented on self-advocacy for young adults diagnosed with cancer and she is a strong advocate and an educator for this patient population.

Author: Robin Elizabeth Forbes, MSW, RSW
Bio: Robin Forbes is the Practice Lead for Social Work and the Co-lead of the Division of Psychosocial Oncology in the Department of Supportive Care at Princess Margaret Cancer Centre. She earned her Master of Social Work from Carleton University in Ottawa, Ontario, and a Bachelor of Social Work from McGill University in She is a member of the Ontario College of Social Workers and Social Service Workers. Currently working in the Breast Cancer site at Princess Margaret, Robin previously worked in Gynecologic Oncology. Her work experience is all health related, with a background in acute care settings such as the Emergency Department and Neurosurgery and Trauma, and tertiary care – Brain Injury Rehabilitation, and substance abuse treatment at the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health.

Author: Gregory Garber, MSW, LCSW, CCM
Bio: Greg has over 25 years of experience as an oncology social worker in a variety of settings including large cancer centers, community based organizations and private practice. Greg has worked extensively with patients and families facing a cancer diagnosis to help them better the quality of their lives before during and following treatment and has lectured widely on the topic of Psycho-Oncology at both local and national levels and has taught medical professionals at various Philadelphia universities. Currently Greg is the Director of Oncology Support Services at the Kimmel Cancer Center Department of Medical Oncology. Greg has also served on the Medical Advisory Board of Living Beyond Breast Cancer and The Bone Marrow Foundation.

Author: Susan R. Glaser, MSW, LCSW-R
Bio: Susan Glaser is a clinical social worker and supervisor with an undergraduate degree from the University of Michigan and her Master's in Social Work from the University of Pennsylvania. She earned certificates in Health Care Administration, Psychoanalytic Psychotherapy, and Palliative and End of Life Care and received clinical training at the New York Presbyterian Hospital- Cornell University Medical Center in human sexuality. She has worked at the Evelyn H. Lauder Breast Center, Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center for the past 16 years. She supervises staff and students and co-facilitates the Bereavement Program and Advanced Cancer Initiative.

Author: Barbara J. Golby, MS, MSW, LCSW-R
Bio: Barbara Golby received a BA in Psychology from SUNY Stony Brook and a Master’s of Science in Human Development and Family Studies from the University of Wisconsin at Madison. She earned her MSW from the Smith College School for Social Work in Massachusetts. She is a senior clinical social worker at Resources for Life after Cancer, a patient support and education program at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center. She has been at MSK for eight years, working with individuals and families to help them manage the stressors of living with a serious medical illness. Currently her work focuses on cancer survivorship, where she develops programs and provides support to patients and families around the transition to life after treatment. Ms. Golby coordinates the Department of Social Work’s MSW Student Education Program as well as the Kids Express Program which providing consultation and support services to adult patients with young children.

Author: Kaitlin Goldgraben, BA, MSW, LMSW
Bio: Kaitlin Goldgraben received a BA in Social Services from Quinnipiac University in 2009 and a Masters in Social Work from New York University in 2011. She began her social work career at the Mount Sinai Hospital in 2011, and has been working in the field of Oncology for 2 years. In this role, she provides psychosocial support to patients diagnosed with all types of cancer, and facilitates safe and timely discharge plans. Kaitlin specializes in working with head & neck patients, and works closely with Mount Sinai's primary ENT Surgery team. Kaitlin also serves on the Oncology Quality Assurance Committee, and has presented at an Oncology Symposium in New York City, on the social work role with colorectal cancer patients.

Author: Heather H. Goltz, PhD, MSW, MEd, LMSW
Bio: Dr. Heather Goltz is an oncology social worker and social work educator. She completed an MSW at the University of Houston and a PhD in health education at Texas A&M. In addition, she holds an MEd in health professions education. She completed a post-doctoral fellowship in health services research at the Houston VA and a fellowship in cancer survivorship at Baylor College of Medicine. She has a particular expertise in genitourinary oncology and interventions for low-health-literacy survivors.

Author: Alexandra Gubin, MSW, LCSW-C
Bio: Alexandra Gubin received a Masters Degree in Social Work from Columbia University. For the past three and a half years, she has served as a Clinical Social Worker and Patient Navigator supporting adolescents and young adults specifically within the Division of Pediatric Oncology at The Johns Hopkins Hospital. Her position was created through a partnership between the Ulman Cancer Fund for Young Adults and The Johns Hopkins Hospital. Ms. Gubin's job is extremely dynamic as it encompasses a hybrid of clinical, research, program, and policy work in the field of AYA Oncology.

Author: Christina Hill, BSW, MSW, N/A
Bio: Christina Hill graduated from the University of Georgia with a Masters in Social Work with an emphasis in Community Development and Program Management. While working on her masters she interned for Young Survival Coalition (YSC) and had a wonderful experience learning not only about nonprofit organizations but about the unique needs of young women affected by breast cancer. Christina currently works as YSC’s South Regional Field Manager; overseeing volunteers and participating in healthcare provider outreach across 12 southern states.

Author: Alex Huffman, BASW; MSSW, LCSW
Bio: Alex Huffman received a BA in Social Work from Baylor University and an MS in Social Work from the University of Texas at Austin. She has been a Social Worker for 10 years in the Dallas area, working in a variety settings, including schools, crisis intervention, public health, and medical/hospital. Alex has focused her clinical work on families and chronic illness with her passion being in caregiver support and bereavement services. She has currently serves as the Chair of the Women’s Issues Committee for the Texas Chapter of NASW.

Author: Kimberlee G. Jones, BS, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Kimberlee received a Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice with a minor in Social Work from Jackson State University and a Master of Social Work from Savannah State University. Kimberlee began her social work oncology practice in the pediatric arena in 2003 where she gained concrete clinical practice and successfully developed a blood and marrow transplant psychosocial support program. Today she is an advocate for adult oncology patients at Northside Hospital where she is charged with developing a psychosocial support program for acute leukemia patients. Kimberlee takes an active role in community grass root programs and has been a facilitator for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society for four years.
Author: Barbara Jones, PhD, MSW
Bio: Barbara Jones is the Assistant Dean for Health Affairs and Professor at the University of Texas at Austin School of Social Work. She is the Co-Director of the Institute for Collaborative Health Research and Practice. She is Past President of APOSW and 2013 APOSW Social Worker of the Year.

Author: Karen Kayser, PhD, NA
Bio: As the LaRocca Endowed Chair in Oncology Social Work, Dr. Kayser implements educational programs in psychosocial oncology at the University of Louisville and conducts research that focuses on interpersonal and psychosocial factors that influence optimal adjustment to cancer. She earned an interdisciplinary Ph.D. in Social Work and Psychology from the University of Michigan. She has conducted research on health-related stress with individuals, couples, and families both in the United States and internationally, including the countries of India, China, Switzerland, Italy, and Australia. She was the Principal Investigator on the first randomized controlled trial on a couple-based intervention to assist couples coping with a breast cancer diagnosis (Partners in Coping Program).

Author: Kimarie B. Knowles, MSW, LCSW-R
Bio: Kimarie Knowles is a clinical social worker with special training in cancer survivorship, bereavement issues, and group psychotherapy. She received her undergraduate degree from the College of William and Mary and her master’s degree in social work from the Catholic University of America. Kimarie completed training in psychodynamic psychotherapy at the Institute for Contemporary Psychotherapy and group training at Eastern Group Psychotherapy Society. She joined Memorial Sloan Kettering in 2008 and currently works with their Resources for Life After Cancer program as well as co-directing the Department of Social Work’s Bereavement Program.

Author: Laura Kotler-Klein, DSW, MSS, LCSW
Bio: Laura Kotler-Klein, DSW, LCSW is the coordinator of social work at the Abramson Cancer Center, an NCI designated Comprehensive Cancer Center. She holds a doctorate in social work from the University of Pennsylvania. In her current role, Laura is a clinical social worker for the breast and gynecology-oncology patients. She has over 26 years of healthcare social work experience and has worked with liver transplant and cardio-thoracic patients and families before transferring to oncology. Laura serves on the hospital’s Ethics Committee and is part of the the Cancer Center’s Distress Screening Project. She is a co-founder of a writing program for patients. She supervises several MSW interns each year and facilitates support groups.

Author: Anh Lai-O'Connell, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Anh Lai-O’Connell is a licensed clinical social worker who joined the Rocky Mountain Cancer Centers team for the Aurora and Parker clinics in 2013. Anh received her undergraduate degree in philosophy with a minor in psychoanalysis from Colorado College in Colorado Springs and her social work graduate degree from the University of Pennsylvania’s School of Social Policy and Practice in Philadelphia. Prior to working in oncology, Anh has had experience in adolescent residential programs and psychiatric hospital settings with an emphasis on mental health, addiction, grief/loss. As an oncology social worker, Anh aims to provide patients and their families with the emotional and practical support they need to continue living their lives with resilience and quality despite facing tremendous uncertainty, fear, change and loss.

Author: David M Latini, PhD, MSW, LP, LPC, LMSW
Bio: Dr. David Latini is Associate Professor of Urology at Baylor College of Medicine. He is a licensed psychologist and oncology social worker. He completed his PhD in psychology at Stanford University and an MSW at the University of Houston. He has been funded by the ACS, NCI, NIMH, DOD, and VA.

Author: Penny Carlton Lau, MSW, MFA, LCSW

Bio: Penny Lau enjoys cultivating creativity in most everything she does, whether it be teaching, writing, or social work. Her curiosity and love for learning led her to her earliest career in Education, in which she taught, mentored and collaborated with learners of varying ages in numerous settings, from English language learners to university students. She was concurrently drawn to the field of Mental Health and then to Social Work, specifically, building on that earlier foundation. Currently, she serves patients and families at Moffitt Cancer Center as they make their way through one or multiple cancer diagnoses, encouraging them to find ways to express themselves along the way. To refill her cup, she practices mindfulness and yoga. Penny also returns often to her writing and plans to publish again soon.

Author: Robin Leigh, MSW, MA, MFA, LCSW; Certified Grief Recovery Specialist.

Bio: Ms. Leigh, MSW, MA, MFA, has given interactive workshops on the healing qualities of expressive writing and responsive reading to professionals and the general public in a variety of settings, including FSOSW Conference 2015. A published poet, dedicated to helping vulnerable and low-literacy persons find their own unique voice, she is working on a bibliotherapy training handbook for oncology social workers. Ms. Leigh, a former English and Creative Writing community college instructor and reference librarian, has attended the National Association of Poetry Therapists National Conference and was involved in the Bibliotherapy Roundtable (American Library Association). Currently, she integrates journal writing and creativity in her clinical work with patients and families at Moffitt Cancer Center, as well as in her facilitation of support groups at The LIFE Center, a non-profit organization dedicated to providing counseling to those suffering the death of a loved one and to those suffering with serious illness.

Author: Leora Lowenthal, MSW, MPA, LICSW, OSW-C

Bio: Leora Lowenthal is a Senior Clinical Social Worker at Boston’s Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center, where she has spent the past year developing the social work program for a newly opened community cancer center in Needham, MA. Ms. Lowenthal’s education includes Master’s degrees in Social Work and Public Administration respectively, and a post-graduate certificate in Bioethics and the Medical Humanities. In addition to her clinical work she has served on several boards, including three years as Education Director for the Association of Oncology Social Work. She regularly speaks at professional and patient education events with a focus on survivorship and how to best cope with a diagnosis of cancer. In 2003 she was diagnosed with cutaneous T-cell lymphoma, receiving treatment at the hospital where she worked. Today Ms. Lowenthal is grateful for her excellent health, and the invaluable support and wisdom she received from many of her colleagues within AOSW.

Author: Hannah MacDougall, MSW, LGSW

Bio: Hannah MacDougall is a clinical social worker at the University of Minnesota Medical Center's Blood and Marrow Transplant Program. Hannah attended St. Olaf College in Northfield, MN where she earned her Bachelor of Social Work degree. Hannah then worked in case management for two years in Minneapolis, MN before pursuing her Master of Social Work Degree. Hannah obtained her MSW at Columbia University in New York City. Hannah has since worked at the Mayo Clinic and now at the University of Minnesota.
Author: Renee Maggiaro, BSW 2nd year of school for my MSW, Bachelor of Social Work
Bio: Renee Maggiaro is a oncology social worker, that has been working on an inpatient oncology unit for the last eight years. She has over twenty years experience working in medical social work. Renee has a bachelor's degree in social work and is in the 2nd year of a master's social work degree program at Widener University in Philadelphia.

Author: Sherry Martin, MSW, LCSW, OSW-C
Bio: Sherry Martin is the Lead Oncology Social Worker at the Penrose Cancer Center in Colorado Springs. She has 30 years of experience in oncology in both in-patient and out-patient oncology settings, behavioral health and hospice. Sherry has been certified as a Compassion Fatigue Educator through the Green Cross Academy of Traumatology and has specialized in the area of grief and loss, authoring the book, Beginning Again: Tools for the Journey through Grief, a step-by-step guide for facilitators of a grief support group. Over the years Sherry has facilitated numerous support groups for cancer survivors and caregivers. In 2011 she initiated an Integrative Therapies program at Penrose Cancer Center so patients and caregivers can experience a wide range of therapeutic techniques that can enhance the cancer treatment and recovery experience.

Author: Janine Martino, Masters in Social Work, LCSW, OSW-C, Post Masters Certificate in PELC
Bio: Janine Martino, LCSW, OSW-C, is a Senior Social Worker at the NYU Laura and Isaac Perlmutter Cancer Center. She provides counseling services to cancer patients, their families and caregivers as they adjust to life with cancer. She offers support to patients as they begin to cope with and adjust to the psychological, social, emotional and spiritual impact of cancer. She also facilitates weekly support groups for patients living with lung cancer. She has worked in medical social work for 7 years with a focus in palliative and end of life care. She obtained her masters degree in Social Work (MSW) and a Post Master’s Certificate in Palliative and End of Life Care [PELC] from New York University’s Silver School of Social Work. She received her Bachelor’s degree from the University of Scranton in Counseling and Human Services, with a minor in Psychology and a concentration in Human Development.

Author: William C McDermott, MSW, MBA, LCSW, OSW-C
Bio: I am the Social Work Supervisor at the NYU Laura and Isaac Perlmutter Cancer Center in New York City. I have been in this position for a year. Previously I was the Social Work Manager at St. Vincents Comprehensive Cancer Center for twelve years and held the same position with Beth Israel Cancer Center for four years. I provide clinical supervision, program development, and work on a wide range of projects. This fall I will be helping to implement the Respecting Choices Program at the Cancer Center. I have experience with many different populations, especially the gay male, Latino, and Chinese populations. In my current role I have been giving a number of presentations to staff of other departments on the role of Social Work services.

Author: Brittany J. Moore, BSW, MSSW, LSW (PA), Psychosocial Oncology Certification
Bio: Brittany J. Moore recieved both her Bachelor's of Social Work and Master's of Science in Social Work degrees from the University of Louisville's Raymond A. Kent School of Social Work. She received the certificate of psychosocial oncology specialization through the department's 1st in the nation social work oncology program. Brittany Moore is currently the Oncology Patient Navigator at Magee-Women's Hospital of UPMC. In this role she provides psychosocial services to the patients of the community, while facilitating a wide range of cancer support groups, educational lectures, and professional development to staff on best practices for diverse populations.
Author: Joanna F. Morales, JD, Esq.
Bio: Joanna Fawzy Morales, Esq. is a cancer rights attorney and CEO of Triage Cancer, a national nonprofit organization connecting people to cancer survivorship information through a national Speakers Bureau, educational events, and online tools. She has served the cancer community for more than twenty years, including at Triage Cancer, as an Adjunct Professor at Loyola Law School teaching a course in Cancer Rights Law, and at the John Wayne Cancer Institute’s Psychosocial Care Program. Mrs. Morales has presented hundreds of seminars on employment, insurance, health care, and advocacy issues throughout the country. Mrs. Morales has been published in a variety of publications and serves on numerous health community committees and boards, including the American Cancer Society California Division Board of Directors. She was also recognized by the Los Angeles Daily Journal in 2010, as one of the Top 20 Attorneys in California Under the Age of 40.

Author: Ahuva Morris, MSW, BA, LMSW
Bio: Ahuva Morris received a BA in Psychology from Thomas Edison State College and an MSW degree from Long Island University. Ahuva is an oncology social worker at CancerCare. In her role she provides counseling, facilitates face-to-face and online support groups and connects patients, caregivers and individuals who are bereaved with resources. She specializes in working with children, teens and families providing individual counseling and facilitating support groups for this population. She also provides outreach about CancerCare’s support services to New York City hospitals and schools. Ahuva is the National Spokesperson for Pillow Talk, an art activity that helps families communicate about cancer, and she has participated in TV, radio and online interviews about this program. She has authored and edited publications about supporting children affected by cancer. She is currently a candidate at the National Institute for the Psychotherapies Child and Adolescent Certificate Program.

Author: Rebecca V. Nellis, MPP
Bio: Rebecca V. Nellis is the Vice President of Programs and Strategy for Cancer and Careers, where she has launched numerous programs, oversees long-term strategy for growth and speaks regularly at national conferences, community events and to press on the practical issues of balancing cancer and employment. Rebecca earned a Masters of Public Policy degree from Georgetown University. She wrote a thesis entitled “Implications of Cancer Survivorship on Financial Assets, Work Productivity and Employment Circumstances.”

Author: Krista R. Nelson, MSW, LCSW OSW-C
Bio: Krista Nelson is an oncology social worker who works as Program Manager for Quality and Research of Cancer Support Services and recently took a new part time role as the Clinical Manager of Compassion with Providence Health and Services. Krista recently served as the President of the board of directors of the Association of Oncology Social Work and as a Director of the American Psychosocial Oncology Society. She loves being a part of the national discussion involving the psychosocial care of people with cancer. She has been a speaker at local and national conferences on issues of survivorship, palliative care, breast and lung cancer, distress screening and children who have a parent with cancer. Krista also serves as an Invited Director on the board of directors of the National Accreditation Program for Breast Centers, and as a Director of the American Clinical Social Work Association.

Author: Neal Niznan, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Neal Niznan, MSW, LCSW received a Master of Social Work degree from Rutgers the State University of New Jersey in 1990 and a certificate in family therapy from the Multicultural Family
Institute of New Jersey in 1993. Working as a family therapist at community mental health practices he provided psychotherapy for individuals, couples and families. He continued his counseling role in 2000 at the Abramson Cancer Center in the Cancer Counseling Service at the University of Pennsylvania working with patients with serious medical illness. He also co-facilitated cancer support groups and presented at numerous conferences and workshops on coping with the emotional impact of cancer. Since 2009 he provides psychosocial support and services to oncology patients receiving radiation treatment in the Department of Radiation Oncology at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania and facilitates the Prostate Cancer Support Group. He also maintains a private psychotherapy practice in the community.

Author: Catherine Ormerod, MSS, MLSP
Bio: Catherine L. Ormerod is responsible for overseeing the implementation of all direct service and partnership initiatives in support of Living Beyond Breast Cancer’s mission. This includes leading efforts that increase public awareness of LBBC’s mission, overseeing the development and implementation of educational programs and services for those affected by breast cancer, and helping to cultivate and develop LBBC’s relationship with new and existing partner companies. She has more than 25 years of experience in the nonprofit and academic sectors, especially in the areas of communications, program and organizational development. Catherine serves as a member of the Advisory Board of Bryn Mawr College Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research and is an Advisor for Laurel House, a domestic violence service organization. She holds a Master’s in Social Services and Law and Social Policy from Bryn Mawr College Graduate School of Social Work.

Author: Sarah Paul, BA in Psychology, MSW, LMSW
Bio: Sarah Paul received a BA in Psychology from SUNY New Paltz and a MSW degree from the Silberman School of Social Work at Hunter College. This fall, Sarah will be obtaining a certificate in clinical work with children and adolescents through the National Institute for the Psychotherapies. In 2013, Sarah was awarded the Master’s Training Grant in Clinical Oncology Social Work from the American Cancer Society. Sarah is currently an Oncology Social Worker at CancerCare in NYC where she specializes in working with children, adolescents and young adults affected by cancer. Sarah is also a part of the Adolescent and Young Adult Program team at CancerCare who focuses on providing services to undeserved populations within the oncology community. Sarah is also a part of the New York State Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers.

Author: Jessica M Perrella, MSW, M.Ed, LSW
Bio: Jessica M. Perrella is a licensed social worker and sexuality educator from Philadelphia, PA. Ms. Perrella earned both a Masters of Social Work and a Masters of Education in Human Sexuality from Widener University, where she began researching the intersectionality of cancer and sexuality. As a Program Coordinator for Cancer Support Community Greater Philadelphia, she facilitates support groups, lectures and develops activity content for individuals affected by cancer in Philadelphia, Montgomery and Bucks counties. Ms. Perrella’s research interests include: the impact of diagnosis and treatment of sexual health, specifically, intimacy and relationships, issues of survivorship in young adulthood and oncofertility.

Author: Alison Petok, MSW, MPH, LSW
Bio: Alison Petok received a BA in Spanish and History from Washington University in St. Louis and an MSW and MPH from the University of Pennsylvania. Alison is a licensed Social Worker in Pennsylvania and is currently working in Medical Oncology at the Sidney Kimmel Cancer Center at Thomas Jefferson University. In this role she provides support services to patients from young adults to seniors, works in the multidisciplinary palliative care clinic, and supports gastrointestinal cancer and melanoma patients. In addition to direct service, Alison has several years of experience in the research arena. She has been involved in the development of mobile interventions to improve quality of life, develop coping skills, and reduce hospital readmission rates for individuals with cancer, as well as evaluating the need for access to fertility preservation services and the development of a distress screening program.

Author: Tammy Plummer, BSN, RN
Bio: Tammy Plummer, BSN, RN, has been a practicing nurse on the oncology unit at the Reading Health System since 2009. Tammy acquired a BSN from Alvernia University and currently matriculating in the Master of Science in Nursing degree program at Chamberlain College of Nursing. She is in the Family Nurse Practitioner program. Tammy also has a Bachelor of Arts degree in Behavioral Health Studies.

Author: Victoria Puzo, MSW, MA, LMSW
Bio: Victoria Puzo received a BA in Psychology from SUNY Cortland in 2005, an MA in School Counseling from the University of San Diego in 2008 and an MSW degree from Adelphi University in 2013. She was hired as an oncology social worker after completing her internship at CancerCare in New York City. Ms. Puzo's work as an oncology social worker includes providing individual and group counseling to people diagnosed with cancer, survivors, caregivers and the bereaved. She specializes in working with children, adolescents and young adults. She enjoys learning new and innovative interventions and collaborating with other healthcare professionals. Ms. Puzo has presented at previous conferences including the Annual Living Beyond Breast Cancer Conference in September 2015 and the Young Adult Cancer Connection Cancervention Conference in April 2015.

Author: Lora M. Rhodes, MSW, LSW
Bio: Lora received her BS in psychology from Penn State University and MSW from Rutgers University. A social worker for over 25 years, she recently returned to clinical work at the Sidney Kimmel Cancer Center at Jefferson, where she began her career in oncology social work in 1996. In her current role she provides support services to patients from young adults to seniors, works in the multidisciplinary senior adult oncology and cancer genetics clinics, and supports lung, head and neck, genitourinary, and breast cancer patients, as well as patients with hereditary and genetic risk for cancer. Prior to her current position, she worked in continuing medical education, developing education programs for physicians, nurses, and social workers.

Author: Anne Rihanek, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Anne Rihanek, MSW, LCSW received a BA in Social Work from the College of St. Thomas in St. Paul Minnesota and a MSW from the University of Nebraska, Omaha. She is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker in the state of Missouri. Mrs. Rihanek is Social Work Supervisor for the Division of Medical Oncology at Washington University School of Medicine, where she has worked since 1995. In her role, she supervises a staff of four Masters prepared Clinical Social Workers and also provides direct patient care in the outpatient Medical Oncology setting. She has sought out training opportunities in Cancer Survivorship and Caregiver support by attending training offered through City of Hope. Mrs. Rihanek has also taught Principles of Clinical Interventions in Health at the Brown School of Social Work and has been the recipient of two American Cancer Society MSW Training grants.
Author: Elizabeth A. Rohan, PhD, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Dr. Elizabeth Rohan graduated summa cum laude from Boston College in 1989 with a degree in sociology and earned her MSW from the Boston College Graduate School of Social Work in 1990. She then began a career in clinical oncology social work, counseling cancer patients and their families, first at the Massachusetts General Hospital and later at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. Dr. Rohan has taught at Boston College, Boston University, Oglethorpe University, and Adjunct Assistant Professor at the University of Louisville’s Kent School of Social Work. Dr. Rohan earned a PhD in Sociology and Social Work from Boston University in 2005. Since 2009, Dr. Rohan has translated her clinical knowledge into public health practice and research at the CDC. Dr. Rohan is a health scientist in the Division of Cancer Prevention and Control, where she is a subject matter expert on Patient Navigation and Community Health Workers and cancer survivorship.

Author: Natalie Santos, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Natalie Santos received a BA in Psychology as well as her Masters of Social Work from New York University. Natalie is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker with special training in oncology, and has worked as a clinical social worker at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center since 2009. She has experience working with multiple populations, including those in survivorship, young adults, and currently with stem cell transplant patients. Natalie has previously presented at the American Group Psychotherapy Association and AOSW National Conferences.

Author: Tara J. Schapmire, PhD, MSSW, CSW, CCM, OSW-C
Bio: Tara Schapmire, PhD, MSSW, CSW, CCM, OSW-C, serves on the faculty of the University of Louisville’s School of Medicine and the Kent School of Social Work. She is involved in research and teaching for both schools. Dr. Schapmire’s research interests include psycho-social care of cancer survivors and their families, gerontology, health disparities, caregiver issues, palliative care, survivorship and inter-professional education. She serves as co-investigator on an NIH research grant focusing on development of an interdisciplinary oncology palliative care curriculum for interdisciplinary health-science learners. She is co-investigator on a HRSA grant aimed at development of an interdisciplinary gerontology curriculum for interdisciplinary learners. As a co-investigator on the Kentucky LEADS Collaborative, she and her team are dedicated to reducing the burden of lung cancer in Kentucky and beyond through development, evaluation, and dissemination of novel, community-based interventions to promote provider education, survivorship care, and prevention and early detection regarding lung cancer.

Author: Hester Hill Schnipper, MSW, LICSW, BCD, OSW-C
Bio: Hester Hill Schnipper is the Chief of Oncology Social Work at Boston's Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center, has been an adjunct professor at Simmons College and Boston University, and was the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation’s first Hatcher Professor of Survivorship. A nationally known speaker, she has authored two books for women diagnosed with breast cancer, writes regularly for professional journals, and writes a daily blog, “Living with Cancer” for BIDMC. She is a past President of the Association of Oncology Social Work and recipient of their Oncology Social Worker of the Year award (1991), and Leadership in Oncology Social Work award (2007). In 1993 and again in 2005, Ms Schnipper was diagnosed with breast cancer and treated with surgery, radiation, chemotherapy, and hormone therapy. These diagnoses transformed her life's work into her life. She has two adult daughters and lives, gratefully, with her husband in Concord, Massachusetts.
Author: Emily P Sherlock, BA, MSW, LMSW
Bio: Emily Sherlock received a Dual BA in Psychology and Judaic Studies from the University of Michigan in 2010, and graduated with her MSW from New York University in 2012. As a student at NYU, Emily was selected as a member of the Zelda Foster Fellowship in Palliative and End of Life Care, and has participated in mentorship in this area since completing her MSW program. Emily was chosen as the American Cancer Society Oncology Social Work Intern in 2011, and began working in the field of social work at the Mount Sinai Hospital in June of 2012. Emily has been working in inpatient Oncology for 2 years, providing psychosocial supportive counseling to patients diagnosed with all types of cancer, primarily around new diagnosis and end of life. Emily also serves on Mount Sinai’s Social Work Professionalism Committee, consulting in departmental issues and decisions.

Author: Kathryn Smolinski, MSW; JD, LMSW; JD
Bio: Ms. Smolinski, an oncology social worker and public interest attorney, is director of the Legal Advocacy for People with Cancer Clinic at Wayne State University Law School in Detroit, MI. She created this interdisciplinary medical-legal partnership between Wayne Law and the Karmanos Cancer Center. Ms. Smolinski is a supervisor in the End-of-Life Care Social Work Practice Post-Graduate Certificate Program at Smith College School for Social Work and serves as a field instructor for the Wayne State School of Social Work. She provides continuing social work education through Smith, Wayne State, and Michigan State University. Ms. Smolinski recently completed work as faculty on an oncology social work leadership grant through the City of Hope awarded by the National Cancer Institute. She was the first Executive Director of the Association of Oncology Social Work (AOSW) after several years working as a senior clinical social worker at Johns Hopkins oncology center.

Author: Stacee Springer, MSW, LCSW, ACSW, OSW-C
Bio: Stacee Springer is a licensed clinical social worker at Walter Reed National Military Medical Center in Bethesda, Maryland. She has 30 years of pediatric oncology experience, both in the civilian community as well as the military. She has provided individual and family counseling. In addition, she has developed the R.E.A.C.H. (Recovery, Education, Accomplishment, Camaraderie and Hope) program for Pediatric Oncology at Walter National Military Medical Center, which standardizes psychosocial care for children and young adults diagnosed with cancer. She is a subject matter expert on palliative care and end of life issues across the lifespan. Ms. Springer has lectured locally and nationally on topics related to palliative care and death and dying. She holds a faculty appointment on the Instructor level in the Department of Pediatrics at the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences-F. Edward Hebert School of Medicine since March 2013.

Author: Sharon Stahl, LMSW
Bio: Sharon Stahl, LMSW, is the Sharsheret Support Program Coordinator. She is a graduate of Columbia University School of Social Work. Sharon provides young Jewish breast cancer survivors with navigation plans as well as educational resources. She also assists with coordinating and facilitating teleconferences and webinars for the Thriving Again survivorship program.

Author: Noni Stearns, MSW, LICSW
Bio: Naomi (Noni) Stearns, MSW was a Charter Member and the first President of AOSW. She was the Director of Social Work at the Dana Farber Cancer Institute from 1979 to 1993. She was an Instructor in the Socio-Medical Program at Boston University School of Medicine and a Clinical Associate at the Simmons School of Social Work. She has authored numerous publications and has lectured both nationally and internationally on a wide variety of psychosocial issues relating to chronic illness and its effect on the family. She received the AOSW Leadership in Oncology Social Work Award in 1992. Following her retirement Ms. Stearns continued to serve on several hospital advisory committees and helped to develop the former US Oncology Foundation patient resource fund. She was diagnosed with and treated for breast cancer in 1993. She and her husband recently moved back to the Boston area.

Author: Marianne Stenhouse, BA, MSW, LCSW, OSW-C
Bio: Marianne Stenhouse, LCSW, OSW-C received a BA in Psychology from Brandeis University and a Masters in Social Work from SUNY at Stony Brook. She has many years of clinical experience working with individuals, families and groups and now is specialized in working within the oncology field. She is a Licensed Clinical social worker and has obtained her OSW-C. As a hospital social worker at Longmont United Hospital she worked with all cancer inpatients as well as outpatient radiation patients. Her current position is with Rocky Mountain Cancer Center in Longmont Colorado. There she works in an outpatient cancer center providing support, resources and counseling to patients, survivors and families. In addition to this she creates and facilitates numerous groups including the empower your recovery group. She also works in her private practice and serves as a member on the board of the pink ribbon survivors network.

Author: Melissa Stewart, BA, MSSW, LCSW
Bio: Melissa Stewart is a Senior Clinical Social Worker at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center. She has been a presenter many times for interdisciplinary colleagues about the psychosocial and spiritual needs of cancer patients and their family caregivers. She formerly served on the AOSW Board of Directors as the Communications Chair. In 2010, she received the Dennis Roth Neuro-Oncology Social Worker of the Year Award, co-sponsored by the AOSW and the National Brain Tumor Society. Ms. Stewart is particularly interested in the mind-body-spirit connection and the role of spirituality in the cancer experience. She has completed training in Gestalt Psychotherapy and Advanced Hypnotherapy. She was ordained as an Interfaith Minister in 2010. Her article Spiritual Assessment: A Patient Centered Approach to Oncology Social Work Practice appeared in the journal Social Work in Healthcare (53:59-73) in January, 2014.

Author: Carolyn R. Stopol, MSW, LCSW-R
Bio: Carolyn Stopol is a Clinical Social Worker at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center (MSK). She recently joined Resources for Life After Cancer (RLAC) following 21 years of clinical practice at MSK since 1993 in both inpatient and ambulatory settings. Carolyn is a former Architectural Lighting Designer, Graphic Artist and Art Therapist who continues to integrate previous trainings in Art Therapy, Hypnosis, Interactive Guided Imagery, Cognitive Behavioral Therapy and Early Intervention Field Traumatology Training in Survivorship Programming and Clinical Services.

Author: Andrea Strouth, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Andrea Strouth received her MSW from the University of Pennsylvania. She is currently working at Providence Health & Services-Southern California to help develop their outpatient palliative care program. Previously, Andrea worked at the Abramson Cancer Center at Penn Medicine and in the Medical and Cardiothoracic Intensive Care Units at Hahnemann University Hospital in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Her passion lies in advanced care planning and education surrounding end-of-life issues to ensure patients feel empowered in every aspect of their care.
Author: Laura Sundstrom, MSW
Bio: Laura Sundstrom, MSW, is an Evaluation Associate with the Curtis Center Program Evaluation Group at the University of Michigan School of Social Work. She gives meaning to data to help organizations make better decisions and improve programs. Ms. Sundstrom is committed to promoting social justice and equity by consulting with and evaluating social service organizations and programs. She received her Master of Social Work (MSW) in Social Policy and Evaluation, with a minor in Interpersonal Practice, from the University of Michigan School of Social Work in 2012. Ms. Sundstrom has served on over 17 evaluation project teams and participated as the Lead Evaluator on nine of these teams. These evaluations have included evaluations of organizations or programs addressing psychosocial cancer care, community development, youth development and college access, human trafficking, and child support. These evaluations have been conducted at the local, state, and national level.

Author: Bridgette Thom, MS
Bio: Bridgette Thom is doctoral candidate at the Columbia University School of Work in New York, NY, from which she also received her Master of Science in Social Work. She earned a Bachelor of Arts from the Gallatin School of Individualized Study at New York University. Since 2005, Ms. Thom has worked at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, where she has focused on conducting psychosocial research in the oncology setting, with an emphasis on the survivorship period, fertility/parenthood after cancer, and access to care among diverse populations. In addition, she has trained nurses and other allied health professionals in research methodology. At Columbia University, she has served as a teaching assistant, guest lecturer, peer mentor, and research study manager.

Author: Sara N. Toth, BA, MSW, LSW
Bio: Sara Toth, MSW, is a Licensed Social Worker at Rutgers Cancer Institute of New Jersey, providing clinical care in an outpatient setting. Sara works primarily within the Breast and GU tumor study groups by conducting psycho-social assessments, providing counseling to patients and their families, assisting with concrete/practical services and making referrals to community agencies. Clinical special interests include mindfulness-based coping techniques for self-regulation and self-empowerment, addressing the sexual side-effects of cancer and its treatment, the unique needs of young adults with cancer, pain management, and palliative care. Additional professional interests include institutional policy development and improvement, assisting with the provision of professional development and education, advocacy for people with disabilities, and working within interdisciplinary teams. Sara has additional training in CBT for Oncology Patients, and has completed Level 1 Gottman Method training.

Author: Ted Varkas, MSW, LMSW
Bio: Mr. Ted Varkas serves as an oncology social worker for the Josefine Ford Cancer Institute. Mr. Varkas supports the supportive oncology needs of cancer patients and is also on the core implementation team for a distress screening initiative for his health system. Graduating from Michigan State and Wayne State University, Mr. Varkas entered oncology social work later in his career. Mr. Varkas has extensive background supervising and providing direct patient care in mental health. Mr. Varkas still maintains a small private clinical practice. In his development as an oncology social worker, Mr. Varkas has conducted various workshops for cancer survivors. Mr. Varkas has spoken on various clinical and pragmatic case management aspects of oncology social work. He has also published in various journals and posters.
Author: Casey Walsh, MSW, LCSW
Bio: Casey Walsh, LCSW is a doctoral student in the School of Social Work at the University of Texas at Austin. Casey received her MSW from the University of Michigan School of Social Work. Casey practiced as a clinical social worker at Boston Children’s Hospital where she was involved in clinical care and research efforts with children with special health care needs. Casey is currently collaborating with the LiveSTRONG Foundation in research efforts around survivorship needs of adolescent and young adult oncology patients.

Author: Katherine E. Walsh, PhD, MSW, LICSW (Massachusetts)
Bio: Dr. Katherine Walsh is a Professor of Social Work at Westfield State University and maintains a psychotherapy practice specializing in oncology, trauma and grief. She has worked in oncology for 37 years, as a clinical social worker at the Dana Farber Cancer Institute, then as the Director of Psychosocial Services for Hospice of Hampshire County, She is a past President of AOSW, and a recipient of the AOSW Social Work Leadership Award. She has served on the BOD for the Social Workers in Palliative and End of Life Care Network. In 2000 she received a Social Work Leadership Development Award from the Project on Death in America and has developed extensive curriculum in Psychosocial Oncology and End of Life Care. She is a co-author of the Award Winning Cancer Survival Toolbox, and is the author of a textbook, Grief and loss: Theories and skills for the helping professions (Pearson Education).

Author: Wendy Walters, BA, MSW, LCSW, OSW-C
Bio: Wendy Walters, LCSW, OSW-C has been a clinical social worker for almost 30 years, spending her entire career working with patients and families facing end-of-life care. After a long career in hospice, Wendy has served for the last 9 years as the Family Support Coordinator for UAB Hospital, the 3rd largest public hospital in the country, working with dying patients and their families in the intensive care unit setting. Wendy co-chairs UAB's Schwartz Center Rounds and the Psychosocial & Spiritual Grand Rounds. Wendy also is Vice Chair of UAB's Ethics Committee and hosts a monthly ethics case study conference. She teaches frequently within UAB, the community, and nationally, and is a frequent presenter at AOSW conferences. Wendy developed the first hospice SIG for AOSW and has served on the board. She has several published articles and is a book chapter author in a major palliative care social work textbook.

Author: Valaree Williams, MS, RD LDN CSO
Bio: Valaree Williams MS, RD, CSO, LDN earned her Bachelor’s Degree in Dietetics from Indiana University of Pennsylvania and completed her dietetic internship at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center Presbyterian-Shadyside. She continued on to obtain a Master of Health Sciences degree from Chatham University as well as a specialty certification in oncology nutrition. She currently works as a Clinical Dietitian Specialist at the University Of Pennsylvania Health System Department Of Radiation Oncology in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Her role includes promoting optimal nutrition status for cancer patients throughout the continuum of care. Valaree serves the profession through involvement with district, state and national organizations. Current roles include member of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics Academy Positions Committee and specialty exam workgroup member for the Certified Specialist in Oncology Nutrition examination. She is on the speaker’s bureau for AbbVie and an interventionist for the WISER Survivor study at the University of Pennsylvania.

Author: Samantha Williamson, MSW, LMSW
Bio: Ms. Samantha Williamson received her BA in Psychology from Northwest University and MSW
degree from Arizona State University. She has a background in hospice social work, and has a passion for end-of-life care. She is currently working at Mayo Clinic Arizona with Palliative Medicine. She was hired as the first Palliative Medicine social worker in the Mayo system. She created and implemented an effective research based work flow for the Pall Med Clinic. This year she developed and implemented a 10 module Palliative Caregiver Education Program. Additionally, Ms. Williamson lectures regularly to the Palliative Medicine team on a range of topics including, end-of-life care in U.S. prisons, increasing hope in Palliative patients, and mitigating caregiver burden.

Author: Daniela A. Wittmann, PhD, MSW, LMSW, CST
Bio: Dr. Daniela Wittmann is an Assistant Professor of Urology at the University of Michigan. She holds an MSW from Simmons College and a PhD in social work from Michigan State. She has extensive clinical experience as an oncology social worker, sex therapist, and couples therapist working with prostate cancer and bladder cancer patients and survivors. She has received funding from the American Cancer Society, Movember, and other funders focused on genitourinary cancers.

Author: Bradley J Zebrack, PhD, MSW, MPH
Bio: Dr. Brad Zebrack is Professor, University of Michigan School of Social Work, and member of the University of Michigan Comprehensive Cancer Center, Socio-Behavioral Program. Dr. Zebrack has clinical social work experience in both pediatric and adult oncology, and has been involved in the development of peer support/advocacy programs for adolescent and young adult (AYA) cancer survivors. He has published broadly in the fields of medicine/oncology, nursing, psychology, and social work, and serves on editorial boards for several cancer-related multi-disciplinary peer-reviewed journals. He was a recipient of the Outstanding Education and Training Award from the American Psychosocial Oncology Society (2014) and the Oncology Social Work Research Award from the Association of Oncology Social Work (2002). Dr. Zebrack’s teaching and research interests are in the areas of health, medicine, cancer survivorship, and quality of life. He is particularly interested in the effects of cancer on the psychosocial growth and development of (AYA).